

My Happy Life in Meadowbrook

I've been a member of Meadowbrook from 2010 to 2016. From my very first visit I fell in love with the place. I didn't expect a place like this in Shanghai. I'm not talking about luxury environment for riders, I am talking about the spirit of the Wong family providing their four legged friends a life as close to nature as they can.

The horses have their groups and know each other for many years. They get turned out daily on the green, in the paddock or on rainy days in the arena for social contacts. You will never see horses getting abused by whip or spurs or being scared and spooked due to excessive demand. The MB team looks after the horses with warm heart and make sure each are not overworked, and receive plenty of rest and care.

After a short while I started spending a lot of time helping in Meadowbrook with my knowledge or just offering a helping hand. I rode the school and private owned horses in dressage training, gave lessons to kids and adults from beginner to advanced and also provided dental treatment to the horses (I am a horse dentist). Nearly each Equitation Day I helped to judge dressage competitions and was happy to see all the students improving their riding skills over time.

All members of the Wong family became real friends and make our life in China easier and happier.

I went back home to Germany with a lot of tears in my eyes.... Ina Schalles
